Salvation Army Drive In Near Future

Generous Response Solicited by A Worthy Organisation For A Worthy Cause

Sometime in the near future a Salvation Army Drive for funds for War Services will be launched here.

Responsible collectors will be calling at every home in Redcliff
 No specific amount is being asked for. Amounts, regardless of size, will be gratefully received.
 This is a worthy cause and deserves the whole hearted support of every citizen.

DO IT NOW

Physical Training is one of the most healthful and amusing ways of keeping fit. It can do no harm, and very likely will do a great deal of good.

A great many countries of the world are so thoroughly convanced that this is a fact. That they have made P. T. compulsory in their schools and, of course in their armies.

We all know that when anything becomes compulsory, it instantly becomes work, but in the right hand, when it can be anything of our own free will, it can be very pleasant. Also when we are accustomed to doing things for pleasure we will likely find them much easier to do it at any time they should become compulsory.

The young people of Redcliff are in a position right now to take advantage of just such a privilege in the form of the P. T.
 classes which are available several evenings a week. Since these classes have been started, the attendance has steadily increased, on the part of the men, (the girls) till there are so few left that it may mean the discontinuance of men's classes.

We are fortunate in Canada in that compulsory measures are never taken out of it is absolutely necessary, and MEN! that time is coming and you can rest assured, that these classes will carry on, in one way or another, when they like it or not. So why not take this opportunity of doing something because you want to, instead of waiting and doing because you have to?

Maple Leafs Won Again Last Sunday

Defeated Elm. St. School. Team
 With Score of 4-3

You're right. The Maple Leafs came home with the honor, last Sunday, when they defeated the Elm St. School hockey team on the Redcliff rink with a score of 4 to 3.

It was another good game. A fair sized crowd turned out to see the youngsters do their stuff.
 This makes the fifth straight win for the Maple Leafs. Now if they can just keep prospering from going to their heads, the chances are they will be the champions among the school teams for the season.

Next Sunday, the local team will meet the Carson Midgets from Medicine Hat, here at 2 p.m.
 It is to be hoped that the boys will receive increased support from the fans, as we understand the collections here have been so poor that the lads have not had enough to pay the expenses of their trips to the 'Hat.

APOLOGY FOR OVERSIGHT

The local Red Cross Executive wishes to state that the sum of $10.00 was donated by The B. of England (local branch) to be used for local work. This information did not appear in the Financial Statement of the local Red Cross in our last issue. It was included in an amount representing the sum of several donations. This correction is made with apologies from the local Executive of the Red Cross.

WHERE ARE YOU GOING ON FEBRUARY 29th?

To the Leap Year. Dance, of course. . . . Everybody . . . will be there. . . . I wouldn't miss it for the world. . . . My boy friend has accepted my invitation and I've ordered his boutonniere from the Harvard House of Flowers, too.
 And a Mock Wedding! . . . Oh
 Boy! . . . Won't we have fun!

A Citizen Advocates Bible Reading in the Local School

Editor of the Review:
 We read in your paper, a while ago, that the Redcliff school, among thousands of other schools in the Dominion, had received Bibles, donated by the Christian Commercial Traveller's
 Zen's Association of Canada,
 one Bible for each class room.

A good thing! The children ought to be acquainted with the Bible, because of its high value as classic literature, but still more, for the excellency of its and usefulness, of it as a text book in ethics, morality and religion.

The daily sight of the Bible in the school, by the children, only that will have an influence for good - the respect thus shown to the Book.

There is something about the Bible that cannot easily be explained in words, which impressions the beholder - its holiness its antiquity and its worth.

But let it not be by sight only of the volume that our children learn to know the contents of it by daily reading from it. In the class room (even five minutes)
 the first thing in the morning, the Lord's prayer included.

We hope that the School Board and the Teachers will cooperate to this end.

Citizen

NOTICE

There will be an Independent

Redcliff Holds First Place Annual Meeting Attendance

12 persons turned out to their Ratemayers' meeting, seven of whom were the Mayor and six Councillors.

Redcliff still holds first place,
 having had an attendance of 4 ratemayers outside the Councillors and School Trustees.
 How lightly do we hold the privileges and liberties of this Democracy of which we have to boast.

NOTICE

The men's classes in P. T. will be discontinued for one week starting next Monday, owing to some changes that are to be made in the hall in preparation for the Leap Year Ball to be held on Feb. 29th. The classes will again be resumed on the following Monday for a period of one week. At the end of that time, unless there is a better attendance and more interest shown, they will be discontinued permanently. Owing to the fact that no equipment will be available soon, it would be too bad not to take advantage of it.

thread on to needles, also pick up 4 sts. that were cast on for

The Path To Health

A reduction of 26 per cent. in deaths from all diseases and accidents combined in the period of the last ten years in the Dominion is a record of which the people of Canada have a right to be proud, since the statistics indicate marked progress in the fields of both preventive and curative medical treatment, and this, of course, includes the sphere of surgery.

This achievement is more particularly notable since the progress along the path to better health and greater longevity has coincided with one of the worst in Canada's economic history, 1929 to 1939 inclusive. It means that during a period when people have had less money to spend on luxuries than formerly they have been devoting themselves to the task of promoting better health and longer life and have been giving hearty support to public health authorities, scientists and the medical profession in their efforts towards these worthy objectives with considerable success. Surveys these objectives and these results are deserving of commendation and the people of this country generally should be congratulated.

Some statistics of mortality from various diseases during the past decade among the 1,250,000 policy holders of the industrial department of one of the large life insurance companies, which may fairly be taken as representative of the people of the Dominion as a whole, show tremendous declines in the death incidence of many diseases which formerly took a very heavy toll of the populace, and show that during the past two years, 1938 and 1939, the mortality rate has been the lowest in Canadian history. In 1929 new low mortality rates for tuberculosis, pneumonia, scarlet fever, diarrhoeal diseases and accidents combined, were recorded.

Marked Progress

Public enemy No. 1 in the death rate column as recently as 11 years ago, tuberculosis, as a cause of death in Canada has dropped to third place. The death rate from this disease among the company's policyholders last year was seven per cent. lower than in 1928 and 40 per cent. lower than in 1929—an indication that this disease is succumbing to the onslaughts being made upon it by the co-operative efforts of the public, the medical profession, research workers and public health authorities.

Even more marked progress has been shown during the past ten years in the fight against some of the other dangerous diseases. Mortality from pneumonia, one of the most deadly diseases a few years ago, has declined in a single year by 19 per cent. and in the last ten years by 25 per cent. among the company's reports. Deaths from influenza have declined 70 per cent. in the decade, while a decline of 13 per cent. in a single year and 60 per cent. in ten years marks the progress of the battle against the four principal communicable diseases among children: measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough and diphtheria.

With respect to diphtheria," says the insurance company, "it is interesting to note that ten years ago it caused about as many deaths among the insured in Canada, as did the three other communicable diseases combined. To-day, deaths from whooping cough, despite a reduction of 40 per cent. outnumber those from diphtheria."

Deaths from diarrhoea and enteritis have declined 12 per cent. in one year and 75 per cent. in ten years; from purpural conditions, some but not all of which may be attributed to a declining birth rate, 20 per cent. in the decade and fatal accidents, 30 per cent. in the ten years. No decline, however, is shown in the number of deaths from automobile accidents in the ten year period, otherwise the reduction in accidental deaths would have been substantially increased.

More to Be Done

While these facts and figures will be digested with considerable satisfaction, the war against preventable disease and death is by no means won but they do show that real progress is being made. There is a dark side to the picture represented in the increasing death rate from cancer within 50 per cent. higher in 1939 than ten years ago. It is to be hoped, however, that the present campaign which is now being conducted to make the people thoroughly conversant with the symptoms of this great killer and of the fact that the disease can be cured if caught and treated in the earlier stages will bear fruit during the decade, 1939 to 1949. There is no doubt that thousands in Canada who have been laid in the grave, victims of cancer, and hundreds who to-day are doomed to an early demise from the same cause would be alive and healthy, had they had the knowledge that would have enabled them to seek medical attention.

Cancer is not the only disease, on which concerted efforts must be put if the death rate for the next ten years is to show a corresponding, or even greater decline than the past decade. During the past ten years the mortality rates from diabetes, heart disease, diseases of the sensory arteries and chronic nephritis have all shown appreciable rises.

While, as noted, these diseases which are becoming a greater menace to the people of Canada, are comparatively few in number, they offer a wide field for more research, more education and more co-operation between the public, health authorities and the insurance companies themselves, who, it might not be amiss to remark, are rendering a valuable service in the efforts they are making to promote health, reduce mortality rates and make available to the public health information which will help the people to help themselves to better health, and hence, greater happiness.

A Rabbit Drive

Novel Method Adopted For Assisting The Red Cross Fund

Stankiewicz residents have a novel way of raising funds for the Red Cross, reports Mary Gardner, of Manor. This is a "rabbit drive", several of which have been held in the Auburnham district, 14 miles south of Manor.

These rabbit drives usually are held on a Saturday afternoon, and each one covers approximately six miles. In the centre of this area a rabbit corral (or trap) is built of chicken-wire, square, with one side open and two wings projecting like the sides of a funnel.

At a specified time, usually around 1 p.m., men, women and girls meet for the drive. They advance on the corral from four directions, spread out in four long lines. On a signal they start walking or running toward the trap, through fields and farmyards, driving the rabbits before them. These lines are kept in place by two mounted men, who prevent one line from getting ahead of another.

Eventually the four lines meet in the centre and the frightened rabbits are herded into the trap. When the hunters disperse a special selected crew dispatches the rabbits as quickly and painlessly as possible. The carcasses are disposed of to butchers or for farms. The pellets eventually find their way to manufacturers of felt hats, while the meat is fed to fowls.

From five to seven cents is received for each rabbit and the proceeds of each hunt is turned over to the local Red Cross Society.

In addition to providing the Red Cross with funds, these drives rid the communities of the rodents which, in most cases have become community pests.

No Travel Rush

British Ski Enthusiasts Not Going To Switzerland This Year

Ordinarily at this season the Victoria station platform from which trains leave for Chamonix is jammed with people and luggage and bundles of skis all heading for snow and sunshine. This winter the golden age of the Swiss hotel-keepers seems to have come temporarily to an end as far as British visitors are concerned; after a recent snow-fall people merely waxed their skis and took them out to do a few wistful turns on the mild English slopes.

Even in the face of such a depressing business outlook, the clerks in Thomas Cook's Berkeley Square travel office are successfully preserving that air of polite detachment with which they have cultivated so carefully for years. A young woman who had somehow contrived to secure a permit to visit the country went in there the other day and broke the cathedral hush of the place by asking, in casual voice, as she could manage, how to get to the Swiss skiing country. The clerk's smile suddenly reached his eyes and he said, "Certainly, Madam. May I suggest that you go to Paris?"—London Letter, to The New Yorker.

To Guide Aviators

New Instrument Board Guides Pilot To Safety When Visibility Is Poor

Aeronautical engineers have invented an instrument, simpler in appearance than the fact of it, which tells a pilot all he needs to know about where and how he is flying in even the thickest weather. Called the "light-ray," it borrows from television, the cathode ray tube which makes the pictures in home receiving sets. Instead of pictures, it draws some lines and a circle.

Frederic R. Bassett, vice-president and chief engineer of the Sperry Gyroscopic Co., Brooklyn, N.Y., told about it in a paper delivered before the annual meeting of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

It relieves a pilot of the necessity of looking at that horrendous arrangement of rigid instruments in the cockpit of transport planes, and reduces the chances of mental confusion.

Basically, it is nothing more than the familiar end of a cathode ray tube with three lines and a circle on it instead of television pictures. The lines tell the direction the airplane is pointed, whether it is in level flight, whether it is maintaining proper speed, and whether it is at the right altitude selected. When the lines move, the plane is deviating from a true course.

The circle is used for instrument or "blind" landings. When the line "plane pointed" on the end of the tube is centered in the circle, the pilot knows he is on a "radio signal" which will bring his wheels to the surface of an airport in blinding mist, rain or fog.

That's how it works. Telling why it works is another matter. Bassett explained that the lines and the circle were created by means of the actions of electrons inside the tube which hammer away at the same frequency as the light which produces television's pictures.

The instrument has been tested extensively. Pilot, Bassett reported, said it worked fine.

May Resume After War

Cornhill Magazine Fought By Thackeray In 1850 Suspends Publication

The Cornhill Magazine, founded in 1850 by William Makepeace Thackeray over fifty-five years of existence, has suspended publication "until peace gets cheaper and the war gets madder."

The January issue did not come out and an official of the John Murray Company, publishers, said no more would appear until the end of the war. The high price of paper, the slump in advertising and the difficulty of guaranteeing delivery to subscribers overseas, were the reasons given for the suspension. It was emphasized, however, that the publishers will hold copyright and keep their subscription list to start up again "after the days of Hitler."

The Cornhill Magazine had a remarkable start. Thackeray planned the magazine with the publishers, Smith and Elder, in Waterloo Place, and advertised the first issue. It achieved the remarkable circulation of 156,000. Thackeray continued as editor until April, 1862, when the tasks of editorship became irksome and he resigned.

The magazine rapidly lost popularity in this century, however. It cut its price to a shilling from one shilling and six pence during the war. Last month the circulation dropped to between 5,000 and 6,000.

The last famous editor of the Cornhill was Leonard Husley, father of Aldous and Julian, a noted London writer of such charming rejection slips that authors never knew whether their manuscripts had been rejected or accepted.

Lord Cornwall succeeded Husley as editor in his last issue.

Made It Interesting

The magistrate was a very keen golfer. He was trying the case of a man who was summoned for cruelty to his wife. "My client," said the defending counsel, "is a much maligned man. His wife is constantly nagging him in the end, driven to desperation, he beat her into silence with a golf club."

The magistrate leaned forward with a sudden show of interest. "In how many strokes?" he questioned.

If trouble occurs suddenly in an engine, it is not likely to be the cause, since change in the fuel mixture will take place very slowly.

Army Educational Program

Canadian Soldiers Copying Text Book In Their Kits

One could not say that Canada's fighting men will go into action with a rifle over their shoulder and a textbook under their arm, but it is certain that tucked somewhere into the kit of most of them will be one of the courses of the Army's educational program.

According to reports at Ottawa, the response by members of the Canadian Active Service Force to the educational scheme has been amazing. The result of a joint proposal by the Canadian Legion and the Canadian Association for Adult Education, the plan has been eagerly accepted by soldiers young and old, as a means of keeping pace with a changing civil world.

At the outset it was planned to limit the program to lecture courses and selected reading. But it has met with such enthusiasm that a correspondence course which will follow the men even into the front lines is understood to be under consideration. The value of an aid to civil re-establishment after peace has been considered to be inestimable. It will provide an opportunity for the education of the army, whose educations were interrupted by the advent of war, to maintain their accepted level of knowledge while doing their bit for the Empire.

As an indication of the popularity of the plan, it was reported by the press that as much as 20 per cent of the enlisted personnel in certain districts have signed up for courses in conversational French and German.

At the outset difficulties were encountered in the course of the sudden moves of students from one training area to another. That has been overcome now by a system of "credit" cards which permits a soldier to take up his studies at his new training place where he is left at the outbreak of hostilities.

Throughout the country universities have moved soldiers behind the lines. The result of the plan is cooperating in the drafting of a standard matriculation course for the army which will be recognized by the universities of Canada. If the war lasts long enough the Canadian Army will be turning out Bachelors of Arts as well as good-sounding fighting men.

Military officials declare that the educational program is rapidly replacing the "stagnant" and "repetitive" nature of the army. The students have replaced a definite downgrading in popularity while the reading and lecture nature of the training camps have become centres of rest-period activity.

The army educational program combines on-duty with academic studies. Lectures in economics are based on the causes of war and war and its problems connected with war materials and war supplies.

Most of the books have been supplied by the universities, the Y.M.C.A., frontier colleges and other organizations. Many of the instructors have been recruited from the ranks of the frontier pedagogues, many of whom have joined the armed forces.

Showed Presence Of Mind

Story Told By Mother Cat Saved Kitten From Death

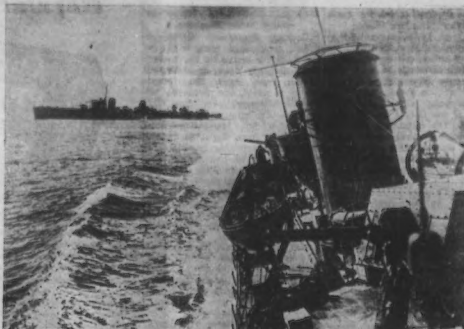

This is a true story of the love and devotion, and also of the amazing presence of mind, of a mother cat. The incident took place in the city of Fredericton, New Brunswick. Puss was moving her family of kittens across the street, and as the kittens were partly grown, they were quite heavy for her to carry. Half way across the street, she dropped out, just as an automobile was approaching. The driver had no time to stop, so he drove on with it. He neither would he leave it to its fate, so he quickly lay down in the street himself, covering the kitten with her body, to protect it. The driver of the car passed her by not much more than a hair's breadth, whereupon Mother Puss arose, picked up her baby and went on her way. Of course, if the kitten had been left there alone, the driver might easily have gone over it without ever seeing it at all, but the body of the cat in the street was quite noticeable, and he went past it without touching the courageous little creature.

Lillian Sholes, daughter of Christopher Latham Sholes, was the world's first typist. Her father invented the first successful typewriter, but the machine wrote only capital letters.

Reward For Kindness

Red Cap Received An Unexpected And Very Substantial Tip

In the hurrying throng of Grand Central terminal, a small, wrinkled and plainly but neatly-dressed woman weighted down by two heavy bags was being buffeted here and there.

Finally the attention of a red cap was attracted and he sprang to her assistance.

Having relieved her of her baggage and learned what train she was taking, he led her to a day coach and stowed away the bags in the rack. When he came back up the ramp he looked rather dazed.

"I didn't expect nothing," he explained to a fellow worker. "I was just giving her a hand 'cause she's old. But look here, boy at what she gave me and she said it wasn't no mistake neither."

And the other porter, whistled as he gazed at two big homemade cookies—a new five-dollar bill.

A Vanishing Industry

In 1915 the carriage, wagon and sleigh industry of Canada employed 4,507 men on wages and its products were valued at nearly $16,000,000, including those of the party industry.

In 1926 the men employed on wages numbered 216 and the products were valued at $678,576; this in addition to a relatively small value of such products turned out as a sideline in other industries.

Arizona Bill

He Hated Reds, But Died In One At

The Age Of The Arizona Bill, who hated Reds, but died in one recently. The 64-year-old army veteran had fought Indians from the Rio Grande to the Rockies. Always he had insisted on sleeping outdoors.

Born Raymond Hatfield Gardner at Loganport, Ind., he was captured by Comanches who raided his father's wagon train in East Texas. At eight he was traded to the Sioux for nine ponies and five blankets.

He stayed with the Sioux until he was 13, then ran away. At 15 he was in the United States army, and later he rode for Wells Fargo pony express out of St. Joseph, Mo. When that failed, he went back to the army as a scout in the Arizona Indian campaign. Eventually he joined Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show and travelled about Arizona. Bill spent most of his last years in border army camp.

Recovered His Money

Story Of An Australian Air Pilot Whisking Back Notes From

The "million to one" chance came off for a Sydney, Australia, air cadet, enabling him to obtain what he had described as a "quick return of his money."

While Cadet George Snook was executing a slow roll in a Moth airplane, three £1 banknotes, in a roll fell from his coat pocket. He was 2,000 feet above Sydney. The notes were caught in an eddy of air round the struts and were whisked forward instead of astern.

When the machine was inverted the notes were hovering in front of the eyes of the chief instructor, Flight Lieutenant J. B. Jones. He was in the front cockpit. Not knowing what the fluttering objects were, he definitely brushed them away. An eddy from his arm swept them into his cockpit and Snook got his £3 back.

And Answer Ready

The teacher at a London school noticed during the Scripture lesson that a small boy at the bottom of the class seemed to be finding the questions too difficult.

"Now, Jimmy," the teacher said, "I'll give you an easy question: What do you know about the ark?" "Pleasant, marm," answered Jimmy. "I've heard a marm's thought 'it's what the 'vaid angle sings'."

Prairie Apples

Continued Success In Many Orchards In Western Canada

Prairie farmers, who appreciate their fertile acres and have decided to call them Home, are mostly relieved to have a fruit plantation. Chief objective in their orchards is to attain thirty bearing trees of apples, the king of fruits. On the A. P. Stevenson farm, near Morden in southern Manitoba, the apples have been grown every year since the early nineties. He was the pioneer in apple growing on the Canadian prairies. This year sees several thousand prairie farmers following his successful example and growing apples across Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, states W. R. Leslie, Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Morden, Man.

The past ten years have featured cruel weather on the apple tree. Long, cold, breezy winters and hot, dry, soil-drying summers, with acridly soft moisture month after month, have much adversity to fruit trees in painful degrees. However, it is gratifying to record continued success in many orchards from the evergreen to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. Some plantations have been knocked out by early frosts, but the numbers that have remained fruitful supply assurance to the prairie farmer.

At time marches on, experimental stations and many more fruit adventures are busy on the improvement of apple culture. New varieties are being introduced. The hardy, bushy crab stocks are full of winter hardiness, have deep ranging roots, and are able to withstand drought. A row of these crabs at the Morden Experimental Station is kept to supply seed for growing root stocks. New knowledge is accumulating upon double working of the soil, and the importance of successful growing of large apples is most dependable when March comes and the trees are grafted to a stout, sun-dried, resistant trunk, which sends off sturdy branches at round, non-splitting, crooked, and then in main branches, grafted, or budded, to the variety to be fruited. Good prospects for the middle or trunk portion include McIntosh, Golden, Anjou, and Florence.

Observations tend to emphasize increasingly the importance of place effect. Many of the growers attaining success with comparatively tree large apples have their plantations on an eastern or north-eastern slope above a large deep valley into which settles cold air, or they have planted a large body of water, or they take advantage of some other auspicious landscape feature.

At the Morden Experimental Station, the apples of the Golden Delicious variety, true to their variety type, were sent in from Clinton, Alberta. These varieties are both too tender at Morden. Morden is considered the most desert apple of early autumn season. It is fruiting at many points. Harlan, a valuable winter apple from the Minnesota State Fruit Breeding Farm, is in production from Morden to the Swan River Valley in the north, and far westward. However, many fruit growers have failed with all standard apples. In all districts reporting, crab apples of the hardiest class are bearing fruits provided they are accorded consideration as to shelter, drainage, and protection against winds, rodents, sunscald, insects and drought. Where crab apples are thriving, larger apples may be expected to follow.

The big problem is to secure sturdy new varieties more resistant against winter cold and more resistant to the climate. The Canadian apple seedlings by the hundreds of thousands seem timely and to be the promising approach.

Collecting Scrap Metal

Experiment Launched Near London Has Brought Gladdening Results

Britain launched an experimental "scrap week" at Acton, near London, to collect old metal for armaments.

The ministry of supply said an appeal to 150,019 firms already had brought a collection equivalent to the loads of 12 ships.

Other "scrap weeks" are scheduled in thickly populated areas. The ministry said there was an urgent but not "panic need" for scrap metal.

NEW SPRING SUITS HAVE TRIM MILITARY LINES

It's time to be thinking of the spring suit, in spite of the wintry weather. This year suits have a distinctly military flavour, adapted from Paris openings. Penny Singleton, left, has chosen "Bliss Devil," the military cap with a wide brim. The fitted jacket has a wide collar, and the trousers are corded. The coat features with silver buttons and is lined with wool. Brenda Joyce, right, wears "Cheerful Cavalier," in black and white check. Brenda has her suit patch, pocket trimmed with black made here and there. The suit is to the back, too, to give femininity. The high-waisted skirt has a straight front and gored back. The hat is made of the suit material. Hildagard, below, centre, is modelling the perfect suit blouse in white silk with red stripes. Above is a glimpse of the new spring jewellery—a modern amber necklace.

The Position of Finland

Russia Will Likely Continue To Fight To Wear Down Resistance

Although the Russian forces are not doing well in Finland they are still attacking and always in the same direction. They still are striving for the objective set before them at the start of the war.

The persistence of the Russians emphasized the need of assistance to Finland. With Russia's great reserves of man-power and material the Soviets, having internal troubles can probably keep up the war indefinitely in matter what disaster their armies suffer.

Finland, on the other hand, is limited in men and material unless generous help comes from outside. Brilliant victories in the field do nothing to improve its position.

There can be little doubt the cost of the Finnish campaign is much greater than Russia expected when it began. The cost of a Soviet victory is bound to be enormous and the ultimate consequences of it unpredictable.

So far there is no indication that Stalin is unwilling to meet the cost of a Russian victory. He will accept the humiliation of a stalemate or a complete failure.

The Germans would like to see the Finnish war end either in a Russian victory or a compromise. It is using a lot of Russian fuel, metal and railway rolling stock which the Nazis could use nicely.

Moreover it threatens to disturb the orderly transport of iron ore and other supplies to Germany from Norway and Sweden. These countries become increasingly concerned about their own position, use more and more of their raw materials in strengthening their own defenses against a possible Russian attack.

Chance For Young Artists

Director From London Suggests Course At Famous Tate Gallery

Dr. John K. M. Rothenstein, director and keeper of the Tate Gallery in London, who has completed a visit to galleries in Eastern Canada, said he had discussed with Canadian art authorities the possibility of affording facilities at the Tate Gallery for Canadian artists to enter the museum field.

Dr. Rothenstein, son of the eminent artist, Sir William Rothenstein, said that had improved its position with H. O. McCarthy, director of the National Gallery at Ottawa, and Martin J. Halpern, curator of the art gallery of Toronto.

While nothing could be done until after the war, Dr. Rothenstein said that he had suggested to Mr. McCarthy that, in consultation with his colleagues in Canadian galleries, the most promising students of museum work in that Dominion might be selected for a term of apprenticeship at the Tate Gallery, where in a museum housing the finest collection of British art in the world, they could gain valuable experience.

Left Estate To Sons

Bombay Merchant Advised Them Against Borrowing Or Lending Money

A will, in which a Bombay merchant gives advice to his sons and asks that surgeons should determine that "life is extinct" in his body, was read in Supreme Court at Vancouver for administration. The merchant, Jacob David, died three years ago, leaving a net estate of $2,997,230, comprising investments in India, China, Hong Kong, Morocco, Algeria, Quebec and British Columbia. "I earnestly beseech and beg my sons to avoid extravagance and unnecessary expenditure," the will said in the country fought for service them to adhere to the policy of neither borrowing nor lending money under any circumstances.

Rulers Of Denmark

Since 1846, Denmark has had only 19 kings, including 10 Christian and eight Fredericks, and one Hans. The present king, Christian X, is now 57 years old. His reign, however, is not as long as six inches tall, he is reputedly the tallest man in the nation.

Members Are Anonymous

Eighty Women Comprise Wartime Service Unit In France

Imagine a group of 80 women, of all ages, all ranks, all professions, all social and even the wife of a prominent Cabinet Minister, all engaged on active war service, yet nobody maintaining an anonymity that has earned them this collective nickname: "The Nameless Women".

You don't have to imagine it. It's a fact. The group is a section of the French Red Cross, consisting of women volunteers who drive ambulances, carry emergency supplies to evacuated civilians and medicine and supplies to the troops at the front.

Officially it is the "Women's Auxiliary Automobile Section," usually shortened to R.S.A. The popular nickname "Nameless Women," derives from the fact that no names are ever allowed to appear in connection with the activities of the group.

It is the only feminine auxiliary service unit so far as an official unit of the Ministry of National Defense. Enrolment is made very difficult. There are strict criteria to be met before an application is even considered. There are also a number of incursions, vaccinations and supplies to be complied with, but enrolment is open to all nationalities and the age limit is generous—40 to 60.

There is every reason for the enforcement of the stringent enrolment conditions. Volunteers have been known to drive over one thousand miles in 48 hours, carrying emergency supplies to evacuated populations and comforts to the troops. Up to date the unit has covered over 150,000 miles, so it is easy to see there is neither time nor energy to spare for half-hearted or physically deficient workers.

The Next Improvement

It can be argued, with good evidence, that adequate signals for motorists would contribute as much to more to street and highway safety as the traffic lights do. If the engineers can build a signal system into cars and persuade drivers to use it faithfully, safe driving will be well served.

For some reason or other, red-headed persons are less susceptible to bad weather than others—and blonde are the most likely to lose their hair.

The Real Goring

Is Dangerous Because He Is A Man Of Action

Stephen Loran, author of "I Was Hitler's Prisoner," and now editor of the English magazine, Picture Post, through which in a recent article he has done a great deal to make the people of Great Britain see that Goring is as ruthless as any other Nazi and more dangerous because he is a man of action, says that Goring is the personification of direct force and, if need be, inhuman brutality.

It was Goring who organized the Four-Year Plan for Germany, and Canada can blame him for the degree of success attained in the attempt to make Germany self-sufficient in foodstuffs, thus cutting off a great market for Canadian wheat. It was Goring who told the people of Germany that they would have to choose between guns and butter—and forced them to choose guns and like it. It was Goring who is credited with first organizing the system of election intimidation in Germany which produced the Nazi government. It was Goring who organized the system of election intimidation in Germany which produced the Nazi government. It was Goring who organized the system of election intimidation in Germany which produced the Nazi government.

Made Big Mistake

Nazi Leaders Thought Britain And France Were Weak

This is the situation into which Germany got itself because its Nazi rulers, being inexperienced, fell easy victims to a glib and ridiculous philosophy. They adopted the idea that peoples and nations can be deceived by "young" or "old." Germany, they said in effect, is young and appealing for a fight—for its people in the main. Britain, on the other hand, is weary of its Empire adventures, while France is plumb lunkered out. The only trouble with all this is that it is a conspiracy from wishful thinking. Britain and France were not too weary to continue against Germany's long-range swarming of Central Europe. There was no look of age about the spirit of the men of the plane, the Ajax and Achilles; neither is there such a look about the men who look down from the Maginot line. It was just an idea which got into the mystic Teuton head and grew there until it brought disaster—Portland Oregon.

A Brave General

Russian Bombs Do Not Disturb Finland's Hero No. 1

Finns report that Field Marshal Baron Oskar Gustav Mannerheim, commander in chief of Finnish forces, was lunching at a small town when Russian planes began bombing. Others in the meal had been told for a while that he was being bombed. Mannerheim refused to be disturbed by other officers to go himself.

If Finland needs me I shall live, the 75-year-old "Hero No. 1" said. "If she does not why should I go to a shelter?"

He continued eating, it was related, and a girl of the Auxiliary Lotta Sverdrup Organization, acting as waitress, stayed to serve him. When the bombing and lunch were over, it was said, the marshal took a medal for bravery from his uniform and pinned it to the girl's uniform.

Prepared For The Worst

German Threats Do Not Appear To Have Intimidated The Allies

The Germans have made the mistake of waging a "war of nerves" against people who are alerted at least to the prospect of a war of blood.

One remembers that in October Dr. Otto Dietrich, the German press chief, emerged from a conference with Hitler to announce a "the most gruesome blood bath in history" unless the Allies made peace quickly. Now, in wave after wave, announcing the British Navy. Nothing happened.

In November Hitler announced "We will now speak to the British in the language they will probably best understand," and Marshal Goring threatened to "rain down the war" from the skies over the British Isles.

More recently in a New York magazine, a poet writing tried to make Allied shell creep by saying that "a word from the Pushers" against people who are alerted at least to the prospect of a war of blood.

Sgt. A. Baker, of the Calgary Rifles, was a weekend visit or here with Mrs. Baker who is staying at present with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Duffin.

Among the recruits who left for Calgary on Friday were Rodney Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell and Wilfred Hurlbut, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Hurlbut both Redcliff boys.

A Chinese lad, Donald Quon, won the highest honors of the school term at High River by popular vote. He is 15 years of age, is in Grade 12 and if he does not make 100% in every examination, the teachers feel he is slipping badly.

Mrs. P. Reuter was the hostess on an enjoyable birthday party for her son, Mr. Reuter, and Mr. W. Pickering, last Friday evening. Honors for Bridge were won by Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morris of Medicine Hat. Congratulations went to Mrs. L. Henderson, and Mr. W. Pickering. A dainty birthday supper was served, a fine two tiered birthday cake gracing the centre of the table. The two gentlemen were the recipients of many gifts appropriate to the occasion.
